

GeoSciEd V 2006

Location:

Bayreuth is located in north-eastern Bavaria and is known worldwide for its history and the Wagner Festivals. It is a young university town and is well-known among international geoscientists for its state-of-the-art Bavarian Geoinstitute of Experimental Geochemistry and Geophysics.

Bayreuth can be reached easily by air, train or car:

- By air via Frankfurt (280 km), Munich (220 km), and/or Nuremberg (80 km) continuing by train or by car.
- By train via Nuremberg (from north, northwest, west and south) or Marktredwitz (from northeast and east).
- Bayreuth is located at the main Autobahn A9 (E 21 route Nuremberg - Hof - Leipzig - Berlin) about 80 km northeast of Nuremberg.

Accommodation:

Booking arrangements have been made with three local hotels with special rates for GeoSciEd participants. Please see the conference-website for details. For further assistance contact the tourist bureau:

Tourist Bureau of the City of Bayreuth
Luitpoldplatz 9, D - 95444 Bayreuth
Tel.: 09 21/ 8 85 88, Fax: 09 21/ 8 85 55
E-Mail: info@bayreuth-tourismus.de www.bayreuth-tourismus.de

Bayreuth

Contact: E-Mail: info@geoscied5.de, Internet: www.geoscied5.de

GeoSciEd V 2006

International Meeting on behalf of the International Geoscience Education Organisation (IGEO)

University of Bayreuth, Germany -
18. - 21. September 2006

Geoscience Education: Understanding System Earth

1. Circular
Call for papers

Supported by:

Under the auspices of the Bavarian State Ministry of Environmental Affairs

Department for Geography Education, University of Bayreuth

Leibniz Institute of Science Education (IPN), Kiel

Geo-Centrum at the German Deep Drilling site KTB (Windischeschenbach)

Contact: E-Mail: info@geoscied5.de, Internet: www.geoscied5.de